ATHINA RACHEL TSANGARI

CAPSULE COLLECTION 2012

Text by Athina Rachel Tsangari, originally published in destefashioncollection, 2012

Seven young women. A mansion perched on a Cycladic rock. A series of lessons on discipline, desire, dissent and disappearance—forever. A Greek Gothic mystery film.

The Capsule (2012), a fantasy film written in collaboration with celebrated Polish painter Aleksandra Waliszewska and shot on the island of Hydra, was commissioned by the DESTE Foundation for Contemporary Art as both a short film and an installation. It premiered at dOCUMENTA(13) in Kassel, followed by screenings at the Locarno, Toronto and Sundance film festivals.

ABOUT ATHINA RACHEL TSANGARI

Athina Rachel Tsangari (b. 1966 Myrini, Thessaly) is a Greek filmmaker and projections designer widely considered a principal instigator of the Greek New Wave. Her films reside in MoMA's permanent film collection and have garnered several best film awards worldwide. She co-founded Haos Film, a filmmakers' collective and post-production studio operating over the last ten years in Athens. Among her credits as a producer are three films by Yorgos Lanthimos—Kinetta (2005), Dogtooth (2009) as an associate producer, and Alps (2011). Athina Rachel Tsangari lives wherever love and cinema take her.
